

WARNING

Various websites now advertise Apollo gate operators for sale. In these tough economic times, the internet prices seem very appealing but please understand there are other issues to consider when purchasing an Apollo gate operator system.

Proper Installation: Installation of our product should be performed by a professional installer. Apollo operators are not designed to be a Do It Yourself system. When purchasing from a website, you the customer, can incur additional costs associated with improper installation and may not receive all the parts necessary for a complete system that meets your particular needs. Normally, your total cost will be lower if contracted with a professional installer beforehand.

Dealer support: A professional Apollo gate operator installation company can provide post sales maintenance and warranty support. Our goal is for you to have a pleasant experience with a reliable product for years to come.

Please feel free to contact one of our sales team members or customer service for any questions about your application needs. We can refer you to a distributor in your area to locate a professional installing dealer.
